A KENTUCKY MAGAZINE.

First Number to Appear June 1st.

Colonel Noel Gaines, Kentucky's able inspector general, will, on June 1st become the sole editor and owner of a magazine to be published in the cause of reform. Its title will be "The Crusader," and its mission will be to wage an unrelenting war on vice in every form. Col. Gaines states in his prospectus that he will devote his strongest and best efforts to awakening the public conscience to Kentucky's need of an absolutely untrammelled expression of the will of the people at primaries, conventions and at the polls, to the end that party nominees and the public servants shall owe their nomination and election solely to the confidence placed in them by the individual voter.

In addition to articles dealing with the present political and moral condition in Kentucky, The Crusader will contain a number of especially prepared articles of exceptional public interest. Chief among them will be the inside history of the closing days of the Filipino revolt against American control. Col. Gaines as chief of the civil service under General Bell is well equipped to speak with authority, and his knowledge of events as well as his independence of thought, and fearlessness of speech are certain to result in a series of articles that will be read with interest and will throw new light on a period of American history which marked the beginning of a radical departure from an established governmental system of more than a century.

If singleness of purpose, courage and ability can command success, Colonel Gaines and The Crusader will find abundant success awaiting them.—Courier-Journal.

St. Louis Live Stock Market.

Reported by Evans-Snyder-Buel Co., Live Stock Commission Agents.

[Special to the Kentuckian.]

National Stock Yards, Ill., Apr. 17.—The cattle trade this week has developed into a dull lifeless condition that is hard to describe and the indifference displayed by the buyers can only be realized by those having cattle on sale. The eastern demand is practically eliminated and local buyers, both packers and butchers, wanted a very limited number at greatly reduced values. Most of the beef steers changed hands slowly at prices fully 25 cents lower than a week ago. Receipts were pretty heavy at other markets and while we had only a moderate supply it took the whole day to dispose of them. The clearance is poor each day with a good many bids flatly refused.

The same condition prevails in the butcher cattle trade as on beef steers and prices on cow and heifer stuff is at the low point for several weeks past. Some extra good handy weight heifers sold for $4.65 with the bulk of the good 700 to 900 lb. steers and heifers at around $4.30. Fair to good canners and cutters $2.15 to $3.00.

The trade in the stocker and feeder division is so light that it is useless to make quotations.

The hog market has made its usual advance. Receipts have been light and prices are now at the high point for three years past an extreme top of $6.80 having been reached, with the bulk of the good hogs selling from $6.60 to $6.70. Most of the weights below 150 lbs sold from $5.00 to $6.00 with best pigs at $5.50. The demand is good at these prices and hogs should continue to sell satisfactorily for some time to come.

The sheep market continues good and fully three times the number received could be handled to advantage. Good native sheep are selling around $5.75 and spring lambs $7.50 to $8.50.

The Gun a Teacher.

A story is going the rounds in New York of a discussion between two well-known business men who visit the Maine Woods every shooting season.

One had been telling of his outing, which he had found doubly delightful, because for the first time he had taken his small boy along.

"A boy of twelve? I should be afraid," said the other, "to give my boy the responsibility of a gun."

"Well," said the first, "I should be afraid to deprive my boy of his share of responsibility. Nothing develops a boy like responsibility."

This man's view is exactly in line with the propaganda being carried forward by the J. Stevens Arms and Tool Company, Chicopee Falls, Mass. They argue very reasonably that by putting a rifle or gun in the hands of a boy you teach him to be careful, you increase his self-respect, and make him self-reliant and manly.

The Stevens company have issued a catalog on rifles, shotguns and pistols, which every father should see. It not only describes the many different styles there are today, but it is a perfect mine of information on all points connected with shooting whether for sport a-field or target practice. We have read the copy sent us with the greatest interest, and strongly advise our readers to write for it. The company's only request is that four cents in stamps be sent to cover postage; the catalog itself is FREE.
